WELCOME TO SEWARD PARK

THERE IS A PLACE ON A QUIET PENINSULA, AMONGST TALL TREES AND VIBRANT WILDLIFE, THAT INVITES YOU TO GATHER

Near the entrance to the park, the Seward Park Audubon Center welcomes you to a special place within the city

The Center

The Seward Park Audubon Center welcomes neighbors, both near and far. As part of the National Audubon Society's network of Centers and State Programs, Seward Park Audubon Center's mission is to inspire diverse audiences to conserve natural ecosystems and build healthy communities for people, birds and wildlife. Each year the Center delivers guided walks, lectures, and other programs to Seattle area residents and invites over 18,000 visitors through its doors.

The Park

Seward Park is one Seattle's premier outdoors areas. The park encompasses all of Bailey Peninsula, bordered by Lake Washington and Andrews Bay. The park's 277 acres included one of the oldest stands of trees in Seattle and features more than two miles of shoreline. The park's various ecosystems create habitat for a great variety of flora and fauna, and an unique location for viewing birds. Trails and picnics.

The Building

The building is a fully restored structure built in 1927 as "Ye Seward Park Inn". For sixteen years the building served as the business and residence for inn operators Frank and Catherine Redfield and family. After many years of use by Seattle Parks & Recreation, Audubon mounted a campaign to restore the facility, including modern upgrades, to become an environmental education center. Along the way facets of the building received landmark status, and in 2008 opened its door to the public as the Seward Park Audubon Center.

UNIQUE SPACES FOR YOUR GATHERING

THE EAGLE'S NEST

A historic room with stately charm

Located on the Center's second floor, this space offers a sweeping view of the park gardens through lead glass paned windows. The Eagle's Nest has received Landmark Historic status and has been restored in keeping with the building's original style and materials. The room holds a maximum occupancy of 30 people. With wooden floors and a lounge area near the working Craftsman fireplace, it offers an intimate setting ideal for smaller retreats, board meetings, receptions, or luncheons. The Ann Lennartz Memorial Library is housed in the Eagle's Nest giving the room the feel of an English study. The room offers the modern convenience of a built-in LCD projector and projection screen. Wi-Fi, Bluetooth speakers, and a conference phone are also available. The Center has many tables and chairs that can be arranged to accommodate a variety of functions. The room measures 15' x 34'.

AMENITIES

Kitchen Facility

Food preparation facilities are minimal and are intended for the warming of food only. The kitchen includes an electric 4-burner stove, oven, microwave, dishwasher, and double sink. Counter space is limited and if requested in advance, limited space can be made available for the refrigeration of food items.

Furniture

Chairs, tables, and furniture set-up and take-down is included in the hourly cost. Ten 6-foot tables and eight 70-inch rounds are available for either room. Thirty-two folding chairs are available for use in the Garry Oak Room and thirty stackable sled-base chairs are available for the Eagle's Nest.

ALCOHOL POLICY

All alcoholic beverages must be handled and served by a licensed and fully insured beverage handler. Alcohol may not be sold and must be consumed inside the building. Seward Park Audubon Center must be provided with a certificate of insurance from the licensed beverage handler and should name National Audubon Society, Inc. and the City of Seattle as insureds. Other restrictions apply. Please refer to rental policy or ask a Center staff member for more information.

THE GARRY OAK ROOM

A charming multipurpose room

The Garry Oak Room holds a maximum occupancy of 32 people. Located on the ground floor, with doors that open out into the surrounding gardens and adjacent playground, the Garry Oak Room is an ideal space for larger birthday parties, seminars, or classes. The room offers an easy to clean sealed concrete floor, making it a great option for birthday parties or crafts programs.
